

Feel at home in The Hague

The International Community Fair 2007

The following article was first published in The Xpat Journal, July -August 2007

Feel at Home in the Hague International Community Fair 2007

There are numerous expressions that attempt to define, exactly, what home is. No single phrase can capture everything that makes a place feel like home. One thing, however, is certain. In order to feel at home, you need to be able to find activities that suit your interests. Meet people with whom you can share these interests. Perhaps even discover new interests.

The Hague, like many large cities, has plenty to offer when it comes to finding something to your liking, ranging from culture, to nature, to sports activities to educational opportunities – to name but a few. Knowing where to start the process of discovery can, however, be daunting. Communicating in a foreign language is, at times, intimidating, and, if you are only going to be here a few years, you might want to start looking right away.

In order to help you through the perhaps overwhelming process of settling in a new country, TheHagueOnLine and ACCESS organised the first 'Feel at Home in The Hague - International Community Fair' in 2006. The event introduced the Fair's 2,000 visitors to more than 100 exhibitors and representatives of groups, societies and activities that offer their services and activities to the international community of The Hague and the surrounding area.

Building on the success of its first year, a TheHagueOnLine and ACCESS have joined forces again to organise the second annual 'Feel at Home in The Hague – International Community Fair 2007'.

The Fair promises to draw even more visitors and to offer a wider range of information, with a lively programme of interest to young and old. The expats and international residents of The Hague and surrounding areas are invited to the Atrium of the City Hall on Sunday, September 9 from 11 A.M. – 5 P.M. to discover for themselves how they can make this city of Peace and Justice by the Sea their own home away from home.

Representatives of expat, international and local groups and organisations will be on site to showcase what they have on offer to allow expats and international residents make their stay in The Hague more pleasurable and appealing. From leisure activities to services and everything in between, there will be plenty of information material available, as well as dance and music performances and a children's corner, with activities planned throughout the day guaranteeing a fun-filled family outing for one and all.

Entrance tickets cost € 5 per person or € 10 per family. For more information on who will be represented, how tickets can be purchased or how you can participate as a sponsor or exhibitor, please visit www.thehagueonline.com/fair or contact fair@thehagueonline.com.

The event is sponsored by, among others, the City of The Hague, Shell, ABN AMRO and The British School of the Netherlands.

Date: September 9, 11 am – 5 pm

Location: City Hall Atrium

For more information: www.thehagueonline.com/fair

